ABOUT UNC CHARLOTTE

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte (UNC Charlotte) is a 4-year public urban research university. Founded as Charlotte College in 1946, it served veterans returning to the Charlotte metropolitan region, and in 1965 it became the fourth campus to join the University of North Carolina system. UNC Charlotte currently enrolls over 29,000 students, many of whom are majoring in STEM disciplines, and is the fastest growing university in the UNC system. The University has seven academic colleges offering a total of 77 bachelors, 62 masters, and 23 doctoral degree programs being taught by over 1,100 members of the faculty. UNC Charlotte has invested $1.2 billion in new construction and infrastructure upgrades since 2005, and will soon break ground on a state-of-the-art science teaching and research facility and a 240 bed hotel and conference center. We are an institution that values and rewards applied multi-disciplinary research with a strong commitment to industry-government-university collaboration. The University’s six NSF Industry/University Cooperative Research Centers (I/UCRC) and the PORTAL industry partnership and innovation center are just two examples of this commitment. UNC Charlotte is an institution that is on the move and we invite you to become a member of our vibrant campus community.
